Yale First Nation Housing Policy

Preamble

Yale First Nation has a mandate to align band housing with the leadership's vision of transparency, efficacy and a view to improving the quality of life for all band members through the provision of adequate and affordable housing.

Transparency and accountability to the community members will be established throughout the policy development processes. Policy development will be:

Inclusive – Fair representation from all departments

- Honest and realistic assessment of the existing housing conditions and community needs;
- Development of a shared long-term vision for the community's housing
- Development of specific work-plans allowing Yale First Nation to meet our goals for improving housing conditions
- Consistent and passionate commitment to implementation of the developed plan.

Open and Transparent – Maintaining a filing system for effective record keep and retrieval of tenant files and history of home maintenance

Responsible- Roles are identified through clear job descriptions

Sustainable – Ongoing evaluation and planning

- This policy will be a living guide and will be amended as required.
- It will be intensively reviewed one year after adoption to determine if it is effectively meeting the community's objectives.

Static – Monitoring change in community needs and in opportunities for housing projects and initiatives, revising work plans, timelines and having a process for revisions.

- Review of the housing policy will be ongoing, the Housing Coordinator will submit recommendations as required to Band Administrator and the Community Housing Committee.
- All renewals and/or revisions must be adopted by Chief and Council by BCR which will be added as attachment to a Master Policy Document.

Equitable- An independent system of service delivery must be established to ensure fair and equitable distribution of housing resources.

With the variety of problems a band may face in housing, including non-compliance with rental agreements, requests for new homes and/or land, renovations, routine maintenance, issues related to health and safety and land use agreements, strategies and standards of practice need to be quickly established and clearly defined. Moreover, when band governments are often comprised of band tenants, all key players within the organization must be in accord with the housing department's regulatory practices and it is crucial they all have a solid grasp of the Operational Control structure. To this end, the Yale First Nation will develop effective practices by following the First Nations Guide to Housing Policy, developed by The Assembly of First Nations in 2010.

Two key areas of housing administration reflect good governance practices:

1. The Regulatory Environment

The establishment of a regulatory environment has identified how Yale First Nation will deliver the Housing program. This piece will help the band identify the role of AANDC in band housing, (i.e funding, interventions, governance and band accountability) the role of the Housing Coordinator and the scope of the work to be performed, by creating a local and effective solution.

2) The Operational Control of Housing

The Operational Control of band housing includes funding and finance, management and administration of the housing portfolio, sound policy framework, and active community participation. As is often the case in First Nations, in the event that an individual is higher in the hierarchy of Band Governance than the Housing department, an expressed and defined understanding of the policies and standards of practice will ensure that the Housing portfolio management will be equitable, policy based, enforceable and not subject to intentional misinterpretation. Essentially this will prevent individuals in a position of power, who may also be tenants of the band, to interpret housing policies to their own benefit.

Role and Responsibilities of the Housing Coordinator

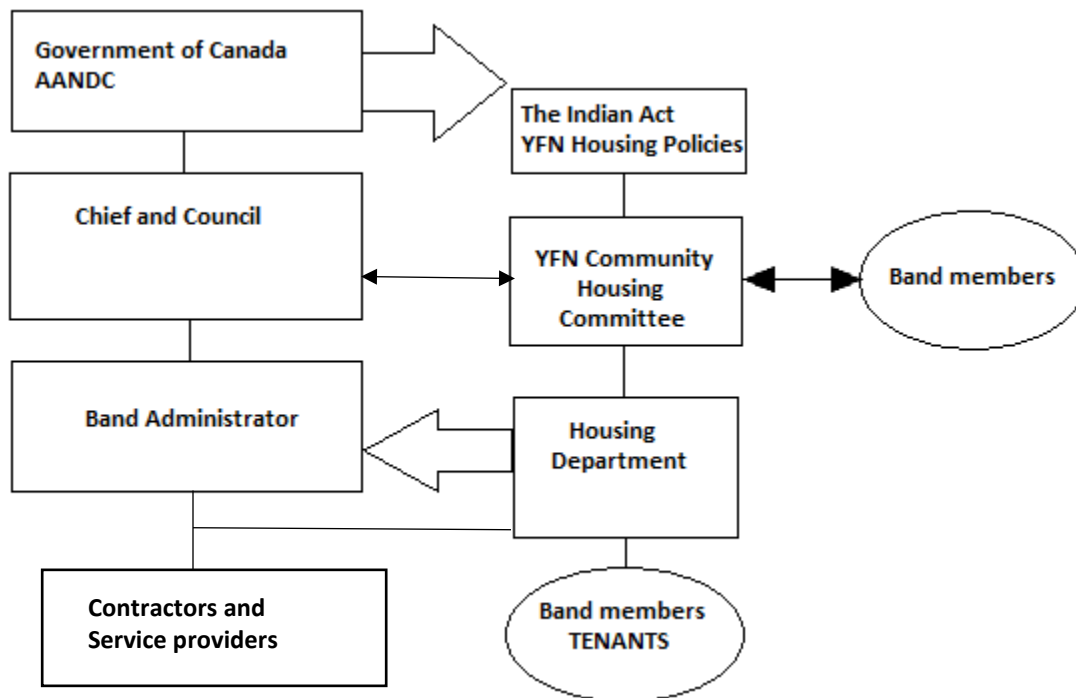

The Yale First Nation housing department will:

- Acquire and/or develop new housing units.
- Plan and create policies.
- Administer the day to day operations of the housing department.
- Respond to the housing needs of all community members.
- Acquire funding and financing for programs.
- Budget for program sustainability.
- Perform semi-annual maintenance inspections of housing units.

- Develop and Deliver home maintenance workshops.
- Create a public education program related to housing.
- Fulfill monthly and quarterly reporting requirements.
- Develop processes for new home construction, rehabilitation of existing housing.
- Create strategies to address long-term operation and maintenance issues.

Governance and Reporting Structure

An effective governance system must incorporate processes that will result in sound management, good governance and principled leadership. The system must allow Housing staff to carry out their duties to manage and enforce the housing policies as mandated by the community. The system must include an appropriate communication structure between leadership and administration for the timely issuance of directives to the Housing Department, and a reporting system to monitor and evaluate the progress and quality of services provided by the department. The system should not allow daily involvement or interruption by Band Leadership in the day-to-day operations of the Housing programs and services. As described in the preamble, officers of the band are often tenants and as such, must be served by the Housing department in a fair and ethical manner.

The Housing Coordinator will consult Band Administration, the Community Housing Committee and Chief and Council, all of whom will follow the directives of the Indian Act and YFN Policies. The housing coordinator will report directly through Band Administration to Chief and Council. Housing decisions related to compliance, enforcement and interpretation of policies will be at the sole discretion of the Housing Manager.

Role of Lands and Resources in Policy Development

YFN housing department organizes all aspects of housing delivery including land use planning for residential purposes, servicing, home construction, transportation, lighting, safety, fire protection, and other municipal type services. Housing Policy will coordinate with Lands and Resource Policy and consult the Land Use Plan to set out guidelines for lot servicing; water, wastewater, roads, and safety. Housing will defer entirely to Lands and Resource Development for policy related to land development for all purposes other than residential development.

Policy Development

The process of creating the comprehensive Housing Policy will require the collective efforts of Chief and Council, Band Administrator, community members, housing coordinator, finance, land and resource manager, band maintenance worker, legal counsel and numerous others that will emerge as the developmental process moves forward. The intent of the housing department is to communicate the completed Housing Policy to all community members and obtain ratified consensus of those members to ensure an adequate understanding of what the policy is intended to do, how it will be implemented, the structure of operations, processes and procedures for issues related to housing.

Mission, Vision, Core Values

Mission

The mission of Yale First Nation Housing is to work with leadership and membership alike to provide secure, safe, and sustainable housing, through a strategy designed to contribute to the health and well-being of our band membership.

Vision

The Yale First Nation Housing Program will be essential in the development of fair, equitable and sustainable housing strategies ensuring adequate homes of the highest possible value and quality.

Core Values

Integrity

We honor our band members, striving to always be honest, fair, trustworthy, respectful, and ethical in our actions.

Respect

We know that respect for others fosters a greater opportunity for understanding. Everyone in our community will be treated with dignity, regardless of thoughts, experiences, backgrounds, or perspectives.

Standards of Conduct

Housing policy sets acceptable standards of conduct for the Housing Department staff, administration, leadership and community. It is important that everyone involved in housing delivery has a clearly defined guide to professional behaviour.

Two critical aspects of professional conduct are:

1. That individuals should not profit from community programs and assets; and,
2. That private information is protected and accessible only to those authorized to access it.
3. That potential for Conflict of Interest is avoided.
